The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Aird.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aird, teaching applicant's basic pillow cover, but not the use of a drawstring mechanism, in view of Suto (note col. 1, lines 2-4), Weidman, or Schmid, all teaching the use of drawstring mechanisms with pillows.

It would have been obvious to one ordinarily skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to have used a drawstring mechanism with Aird's pillow cover, because Stewart, Weidman and Schmid recognize the desirability of using drawstring with pillows, in order to close or tighten pillows.

Parrish (note fig 1, 6), Tittl (note fig 6), Stewart (note fig 1), Farley (note figs 6, 7); and Blossman (note figs 1, 2) and Swanger et al (note col. 3, lines 63, 64) both recognizing the interchangeability of various fasteners, are cited as relevant art.
